2 (v) National Mathematics Day

BBSBEC celebrated National Mathematics Day in college campus on 27-29 March, 2018. As part of the celebrations various activities including the Quiz Competition, Essay Writing Competition and Poster Designing Competition were also held. Around 200 students participated in the quiz competition which was based on curriculum, general mathematics, history of mathematics and mathematicians. Simranjeet Singh stood first in the competition while Manan Gupta and Mehakdeep Kaur secured second and third positions respectively. Prof. Mohinderpal Kaur and Prof. Harleen Kaur informed that they received 25 entries for the essay competition on the three topics – Life and Contributions of Ramanujan, Role of Mathematics in Science & Technology and Contributions of Indian Mathematicians. The experts commended the participants on their efforts for writing the essays for which they referred to numerous text books. Mehakdeep Kaur was awarded the first prize for essay whereas the second and third positions were bagged by Simranjeet Kaur and Karamveer Singh respectively. In poster designing competition with the theme – Mathematics and its Applications, Jashandeep Singh prepared the poster on the Golden Ratio rule and depicted how it has been used in the constructing the historical marvels and won the first prize in the competition. The second prize was awarded to Palak Gupta whereas Simranjeet Singh and Harwinder Singh were declared the joint winners of third prize.

Dr GS Lamba, Principal welcomed the resource persons, Dr Vikas Bist, PU Chandigarh and Dr Sargam Wasu, GGSDS College Chandigarh, and talked about Ramanujan's works whose works in Number Theory were beyond those times and till date researchers are working hard on the theories that he proposed. Dr Vikas Bist, while addressing the faculty and students, explained that the concepts of Algebra could even be learnt using the graphical or pictorial techniques and that understanding Mathematics is not as difficult as it has been made out to be. Dr Sargam Wasu started her talk with a case on Aero Modelling and how the airplane system is governed by the partial differential equations and thus establishing that the real life systems are controlled by one or the other mathematical system. She also discussed the importance of Pure and Applied Mathematical concepts and the significance it gained while dealing with the real life situations which the engineers posed. Both the experts lauded the efforts of the students and faculty for celebrating the day with such zeal. The celebrations also included various Mathematical Games and rapid round quiz sessions coordinated by Prof. Pardeep Kaur and Prof. Jagmohan Kaur. Faculty and students enjoyed being in competition with each other the fun based activities. Immediately after prize distribution ceremony, Dr. Amritbir Singh, Head of the Department, in his concluding remarks, emphasized the need of articulate methods of learning Mathematics as some students study with the preset notion that Mathematics is a difficult subject whereas some easier techniques need to be followed by the teachers and students to make it interesting and understandable.
